Project Summary

This 100m² Leicester garden is reimagined as a crisp, contemporary entertaining space that stays immaculate year-round with artificial turf and premium large-format stone-effect porcelain paving. The artificial grass lawn forms a clean central green, framed by restrained planting beds that soften boundaries without overwhelming the hard landscaping, ideal for partial sun and moderate maintenance. Discreet trellis sections and two modern decorative screens add privacy and structure, while a professional lighting scheme (20 fittings, transformer and cable) layers ambient, task and feature lighting for evenings. One sculptural standalone water feature provides movement and sound as a single statement focal point.

Key Design Features

- Large-format premium stone-effect porcelain patio/terrace with charcoal porcelain edging
- Artificial turf lawn (40mm pile look) as the central green
- One standalone modern water feature as the statement focal point
- 20-light garden lighting scheme with transformer and 50m cable for paths, edges and feature highlighting
- Contemporary seating zone integrated into the porcelain terrace
- 6m trellis panels and 2 decorative screens for privacy and structure
- Proportionate planting beds with 2 feature trees plus layered shrubs for partial sun
